Department of Health

WA Health is Western Australia's public health system. With a state spanning over 2.5 million square kilometres, it is the largest area in the world covered by a single health authority, serviced by 7 Health Service Providers (HSPs).

The Department of Health provides leadership and management of the health system as a whole, ensuring the delivery of high quality, safe and timely health services.

We aim to improve the health and wellbeing of Aboriginal people living in WA by:

- creating strategic partnerships to improve the development and management of culturally appropriate health services for Aboriginal people
- leading systemic change to achieve substantive equity for Aboriginal people which ultimately contributes towards healthy and sustainable communities
- supporting a financially sustainable health care system which focuses on preventative health and wellbeing
- increasing Aboriginal consumer, carer and community involvement to enhance access and delivery of culturally appropriate health services.
